Professional Overview

Jake's practice focuses on environmental and commercial litigation.

Jake began his career as a metals chemist, working in environmental and industrial hygiene laboratories. He now applies his science background and career experience to helping clients resolve environmental legal issues, which include compliance, enforcement, and litigation. Jake also has experience assisting public and private entities with commercial issues and all aspects of civil litigation.

When not in the office, Jake enjoys spending time with his family, traveling, and playing golf.
